DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the language recited beginning at page 10, line 25 through page 11 is improper and premature until an indication exists that this application is found to be in condition for allowance.

Deletion of the language is required.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 2 and 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The instant original disclosure fails to properly enable the use of a binder material degradable by ultraviolet light as claimed.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3-4, 10 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

With respect to claims 3-4, these claims are found to be vague and indefinite because they fail to clearly and properly further limit the apparatus of the claim from which they depend. These claims fail to clearly define what structural limitations would be required to meet the language recited. Clarification is required

With respect to claim 10, this claim is found to be vague and indefinite because it is unclear as to what, if any, further structural limitation is required.

With respect to claim 13, this claim fails to properly further limit the claim from which it depends because the language recited therein was already presented in claim 12.

Double Patenting

Applicant is advised that should claim 16 be found allowable, claim 17 will be objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate thereof. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-13 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by either Elmore U.S. patent No.'s 6,234,241 B1 or 5,558,158.

Both Elmore patents teach hygienic air plenum system formed from a containment means having an inner and outer surface with the inner surface coated with a protective, UV resistant coating. The coating can be non-porous materials chosen from metal, foil, a laminate such as formica, acrylic, plastic, glass, etc. The containment means can be used for the coil of an air conditioning unit, and also contains a UV source. See column 2, lines 35-65, column 4, lines 35-65, and column 5, lines 23-48 of either.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 14 and 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either of the Elmore patents as applied to claims 1-13 and 15 above, and further in view of Ma et al., U.S. patent No. 6,481,234 B2.

Ma et al., clearly teach that the use of expansion valves for the temperature control of coils in an air handling system are recognized in the art for optimizing the performance of the system. See the abstract and column 1, line 55 through column 2, line 40.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to included expansion valve means in the coil of the Elmore patents, as taught in Ma et al., in order to optimize the efficiency of the air handling system.
